

Call for Papers

ECONOMICS AND FINANCE NOTES

Editor-in-Chief: Periklis Gogas

About the Journal

Economics and Finance Notes (EFN) solicits high quality original research work from economists worldwide. The aim of the journal is to provide a forum for empirical and theoretical research in the broad areas of Economics and Finance with specific focus on (but not limited to):

- exchange rates
- monetary & fiscal policy
- international trade
- financial markets
- economic development and growth
- labour economics
- corporate finance.

The journal emphasizes on short -preferably less than ten pages- and concise papers. The intended audience includes: international academics, business people, institutional researchers and decision makers, aiming in providing a truly global perspective on current international economic and financial issues.

Manuscripts are blind-refereed by members of the editorial board and ad hoc reviewers that are internationally recognized as specialists in their fields. We apply all effort to process the manuscripts swiftly within weeks of submission.

Editor-in-Chief

Periklis Gogas

Democritus University of Thrace, Greece

E-mail: perrygogas+efn@gmail.com

Editorial Board

Apostolos Serletis

University of Calgary, Canada

Robert Lucas

University of Saskatchewan, Canada

Benjamin Miranda Tabak

Universidade Católica de Brasília & Bank of Brazil, Brazil

David Krause

Bell Canada, Canada

Costas Leon

DCT University Center, Switzerland

Manu Gupta

Virginia Commonwealth University

Deadline for paper submission

The deadline for the submission of the papers to be included in the first issue of EFN is November 30th, 2010.

Submit a paper

Submissions to EFN should be forwarded directly to the editor-in-chief: Periklis Gogas, email: perrygogas+efn@gmail.com. All papers submitted to the EFN should be written in MS-Word and they will be subject to a blind peer review process. Accepted manuscripts will be charged a €150 publication fee.